War Refugee Board Considers Plan To Set Up Free U. S. Ports As Temporary Havens

The War Refugee Board is considering, among other proposals a plan to establish free ports of temporary residence in the United States for refugees from Nazi Europe, it was disclosed in Washington by John W. Pehle, executive director of the board.

Mr. Pehle was asked about the free port plan at a joint press conference with Ira Hirschmann, of New York, vice-president of Bloomingdale Bros., Inc., and special representative of the W. R. B. in Europe. Mr. Hirschmann returned to Washington from Turkey, where he had been since Feb. 14.

The purpose of refugee free ports would be to provide a place in the United States where refugees who had no other place to go could wait in safety until it became possible for them either to return to their homes or to establish elsewhere. While in a free port, the refugees would not be permitted to travel to other parts of the United States unless they were legally admitted through the regular immigration procedure.

Mr. Pehle said he could not say how far consideration of the free port plan had gone, and that no decision had been made or action taken so far. It is the duty of the War Refugee Board to study all possible ways of finding temporary havens for refugees, he explained.

It was understood that the plan calls for creation of neutral [illegible] where

Since the refugees technically would not be in the country they would not be subject to immigration quota restrictions, just as the goods stored in free ports are not subject to duty because they have never been officially designated as imports.

Adoption of such a plan, it is held, would put the United States

JEWISH ARMY MOTION TO COME BEFORE HOUSE OF COMMONS

More than fifty members of Parliament have signed a motion to come before the House of Commons asking that facilities be granted for the formation of a Jewish army under British or United Nations command to fight on any required battlefield and to be composed of volunteers not at present liable to compulsory military service.

These would be stateless refugees, Palestinian Jews and volunteers from neutral countries and territories liberated from the enemy. At present there are 1,200,000 Jews in the armies, navies and air forces of the United Nations. One out of every seven Jewish men and women of [illegible] the world are in uniform.

Jewish Soldiers Who Fled Anti-Semitism In Polish Army Get Heavy Sentence

About thirty Jewish soldiers who attempted to quit the Polish Army and join the British forces to avoid anti-Semitic treatment have been sentenced in Scotland to one to three years in prison on charges of desertion.

A campaign on behalf of the men, whose plight has been discussed in Parliament, was begun when a deputation called at 10 Downing Street. The delegation, which represented 3,000 clothing workers, left a letter asking Prime Minister Churchill to make it clear that these Polish soldiers were not shirking their duty but wanted to volunteer for the British forces.

The soldiers were arrested when they came to London to enlist in the British forces. One of their complaints was that their non-Jewish colleagues cheered when news of the Warsaw ghetto massacre of a year ago was read to Polish troops.

The Jewish soldiers were tried by Polish courts-martial that last five days in a Scottish town. Polish Government circles had forecast light sentences. The reason unofficially assigned for the relatively heavy sentence was that each of the accused soldiers refused when asked whether he would return to the Polish Army.

Another series of trials will open next week when twenty-four non-Jewish soldiers who came from Argentina to enlist in the Polish forces will face charges of desertion. It is understood that they demand that Polish Jews be transferred to the British Army.

The widening campaign on behalf of thirty Jewish soldiers began to assume an international character.

Russia joined the attack on the Polish authorities, with the charge, prominently displayed in Pravda, that Ukrainian and White Russian soldiers in the Polish forces were also being mistreated. Pravda's dispatch from its London correspondent/stated that a group of Ukrainians and White Russians

To Get People Out Of Nazi-Dominated Countries Is Job Of Rescue Groups

Closer co-operation between the world's two principal refugee rescue groups was evinced by John W. Pehle, executive director of the War Refugee Board, and Sir Herbert Emerson, director of the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees, in a joint press conference at which they outlined the major duties of each organization in aiding persons fleeing from occupied Europe.

After a week of informal discussion, the directors of the two organizations—which on the surface appear as if set up to do the same things—and they had reached "complete agreement on organizational relations" and had taken definite steps to increase effectiveness of efforts being made on behalf of refugees. Their conference was climaxed with a meeting with the War Refugee Board proper. Present were Cordell Hull, Secretary of State; Henry Morgenthau Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, and Harvey Bundy, representing Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War. Mr. Taylor, American delegate to the intergovernmental committee, also was present.

Mr. Pehle's and Sir Herbert's declaration with the press gave the impression that the entire refugee problem is now divided into three phases, with each phase being within the jurisdiction of one organization. The chief concern of the W. R. B. "will be an [illegible] life-saving job" — getting people to get out of the [illegible] countries — Mr. Pehle said.

The principal task of the intergovernmental committee will be "looking after the refugees after they reach neutral territory," Sir Herbert said. The third phase, that of repatriating the refugees to their own countries after the war, will be handled by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. Sir Herbert estimated that at least 95 per cent of the displaced persons will wish to return to their homes and will be accepted by their governments on

Jews Acclaim Warsaw Ghetto Heroes

The Jewish people of this continent paid tribute to those of their faith who defied German troops a year ago, April 19, in the epochal battle of the Warsaw ghetto, and took occasion to urge that all democracies grant temporary asylum to any Jews still able to escape Hitlerite Europe.

A mass meeting at Carnegie Hall, in New York, convened by the American Jewish Conference, saluted those who fell in the Warsaw battle, about whose deeds the complete facts are only now beginning to emerge.

Speakers, including Dr. Israel Goldstein and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, co-chairmen of the Interim Committee of the conference, compared the heroism of the Warsaw Jews with that of Jews in biblical history, and pledged their efforts to obtain all aid possible for the remaining European Jews.

Other speakers included Adolph Held and Solomon Mendelsohn, of the Jewish Labor Committee; Rabbi Louis Wolsey, president of the Federation of Polish Jews; Maurice Hindus, who read a message from Henry Morgenthau, also a co-chairman of the interim committee of the American Jewish Conference; Rabbi Isaac Rubinstein, chairman of the Council of the Association of Jewish Refugees and Immigrants from Poland; Dr. Adolf Tartakower of the Representation of Polish Jewry, and Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the administrative committee of the World Jewish Congress.

"The battle of the Warsaw ghetto," Dr. Goldmann declared, "will be remembered as one of the greatest demonstrations of spiritual courage in the annals of a people which has survived as a miracle of spiritual resistance.

ADDRESSES ON THE MOVE
This Mail has PRIORITY

WHEN a man is wounded in action or seriously ill, he is rushed through field and base hospitals with all possible speed, to the place where most effective treatment can be given. Because of this rapid movement, his mail may not "catch up" for some time, yet, if ever he longed for a letter from home, it is at such a time.

To offset possible delays, a new "Short-Cut" mail service has been put into effect. A Priority Casualty Card is filled in and rushed by Air Mail to his friends or relatives with instructions to add the words "In Hospital" to the unit address they usually use.

Letters mailed from Canada bearing the words "In Hospital" are routed direct to the records office in the United Kingdom or the Central Mediterranean Force, as the case may be. They are given preference in transport, whether sent by Air Mail or regular mail. Thus they will reach the addressee faster than ever before.

It is inevitable that in tracing men who have been moved, or wounded, some delays occur. But you can rest assured everything that can mean speedier deliveries of letters to your men is being well and thoroughly done — and will be done.

When you get a Priority Casualty Card be sure the words "In Hospital" are added to the regular unit address when writing overseas.

"We are appalled at the thought that Hitler, before losing his war to the United Nations, may win his war against the Jewish people, the most fervent ally of the cause of democracy."

Dr. Wise declared that the Germans had not succeeded in crushing the Warsaw Jews "before they left to us the imperishable legacy of their name and of their service to human freedom."

"In the hour of freedom's triumph, which must include Jewish liberation, we shall not forget the heroes and heroines of Warsaw," he added.

Dr. Goldmann described the battle of the Warsaw ghetto as the greatest epochal of the tragic chapter in Jewish history that started with Hitler's rise to power, and added:

"The fight of the Warsaw ghetto-inhabitants a new type of Jew who is growing in Europe as a result of the unimaginable suffering of European Jewry. Most of a people ... who are ready to give their lives in defending Jewish honor and Jewish ideals.

"After the war we will have a European Jewry reduced to a small percentage of what it was before the war, but on the other hand we will see a generation of Jews more conscious than ever and more devoted to their people than ever before."

According to Dr. Goldmann, the Polish Government-in-exile, the Jews of Poland have been robbed of the right of national consciousness and protection to fight for their honor and for their national and civil rights.

"It was this sinking which gave the moral decision to open the Ottawa conference and to give many other valid and effective help to hunted Jewry. There is a moral responsibility between the Jewish and non-Jewish organizations and Canada owes it to Poland and the Canadian people to maintain the ... prince."

Helped Many To New Life

Charles Munter, chairman of the board of the Nulife Garments Corporation, 212-20 Broadway, New York, and for many years an exponent of proper breathing as a means of health, died at the Harkid Square Hotel, where he had resided since 1938. His age was 73.

Mr. Munter was born in New York. He was brought up in an orphan asylum and started his career selling newspapers and running errands. He was sent to a sanatorium in Denver, Col., as a youth, and it was there that he started his own experiments with breathing as a cure. He was discharged completely cured, and after experiments with shoulder braces and other appliances to correct improper posture, founded the Nulife company, the leading feature of which was a corset designed to promote good breathing.

During the years succeeding the first World War Mr. Munter was active as a lecturer and demonstrator. Known on the platform and stage as "Professor Munter" and "the miracle man," he claimed to have aided many to master their ills through his own firm belief that no one need be sick or suffer pain. The mainstays of his system were the correction of breathing and the posture and the drinking of plenty of warm water.

Mr. Munter was a member of Canadia Lodge of the Masons for nearly fifty years. He had latterly engaged in charitable work in behalf of poor and homeless children.

He leaves a widow, Florence, and two nephews, Arthur A. and Philip J. Munter.

"SALADA" TEA

How Every Canadian Who Is A Bond Buyer Can Also Be A Bond Salesman

Each Victory Loan campaign has not only succeeded in its objective, but has found more and more Canadians joining the ranks as bond buyers. This

...ny and Peace will be an overwhelming supply of the ...ds of victory.

But there are still people able to buy bonds who have not yet bought even one bond.

Therefore comes a call to national service:—

Let's organize our army of bond buyers into an army of bond salesmen. The moment each of us has purchased our new bond, let's DO THREE THINGS:—

1. Tell our friends we have bought another bond.
2. Tell them why (because we have someone over there close to us, someone we are not going to let down—because we know that our freedom is worth fighting for—because we have faith in Canada's future).
3. Tell them how. (Your friend may not have bought bonds because he doesn't know how. Explain that he can order from the Victory Loan salesman, from any bank or trust company, or from local Victory Loan headquarters. Point out that Victory Bonds can be purchased for cash, or in monthly instalments, or out of regular payroll savings. Emphasize, of course, that he is simply lending his money and his Victory Bond is as good as cash in emergency.)

Let's talk Victory Bonds at every opportunity. Let's back our buying and faith by our selling and enthusiasm. Let's make this Victory Loan the greatest of all — not only in total amount but in total number of participants.

Palestine And World Peace

(Radio Addresses by Rabbi Dr. Harry J. Stern over Canadian Broadcasting System National Religious Period).
Text: Isaiah 51:9-11.

"And the ransomed of the Lord shall return,
And come with singing unto Zion,
And everlasting joy shall be upon their heads;
They shall obtain gladness and joy,
And sorrow and sighing shall flee away."

I should like to speak with you on the theme, "Palestine And World Peace." And I should at once like to state that the last World War resulted in two outstanding achievements: (1) The establishment of the Soviet Union; (2) The reconstitution of Palestine as the national home of the Jewish People.

No one can doubt in this historic hour the significance of the Union of Soviet Republics. On my two visits to Russia I saw at first hand the challenging experiment in economic brotherhood that is being made there. Russia has much concern for the common man, and it is the common man of the Soviet Union that is driving the once invincible German armies to doom and destruction.

Here is one country in the world where race-hatred is by legislation outlawed; where anti-Semitism is considered a criminal offence. Today Russia is a world power and a most gallant ally in the cause of global freedom. Of course, Russia does not possess political democracy as we best understand it. But our partnership with the Soviet Union will help both ways. We shall be influenced by Russia, and Russia, in turn, will be influenced by us. For genuine democracy must consist of both political and economic freedom, even as body and soul constitute the human being.

Now Palestine is but a tiny speck on the map, certainly in comparison with the vast territory known as Russia. Yet [illegible] from a spiritual and historic point of view, is par-

[illegible] spiritual treasures; The Bible, The Concept of Ethical Monotheism, The Ten Commandments, The Prophets, The Psalms, The Prophetic Pronouncements on Social Righteousness, International Justice and Peace, The Nazarene, The Apostles; have the Mother-Faith, Judaism, gave birth to two other great religions, daughter-religions, Christianity and Mohammedanism.

In the year 70 of the Christian Era, Palestine was laid waste by the Roman legions. Jews thus became wanderers over the face of the earth. The story of the wandering Jew for the past 1900 years constitutes one of the saddest and most tragic chapters in all human history. Persecuted in most lands, tolerated in but few, there is hardly a land where Israel's blood has not fertilized its soil. The Jew, weak and homeless, thus became the world's historic scapegoat. Whenever and wherever mankind has retrogressed spiritually, and reaction has set in, the Jew, the Christ-people, has suffered martyrdom.

Time and again Israel has been made to walk the "Via Dolorosa." Every land has been Israel's "Gethsemane." A thousand times has the Jewish people been crucified. Not hate has been our answer to the world's hostility, but prayer! With the Psalmist of old and the gentle Rabbi of Galilee, crucified by the Romans, in agony we have cried out in pious resignation and trust, "Eli, Eli, Lomo Azovtoni," "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken us?" And coupled with this cry to the God of our fathers, has been the prayer in behalf of our tormentors, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Amidst inquisitions, massacres, pogroms, and expulsions, amidst the tragic story of blood and tears of the "Galut," the exile of 1900 years, two great hopes have sustained us. The first of these has been a religious faith which has given purpose and meaning to our suffering. We know well that our mission in the world is to bear witness to God and God's Moral Law. "Ye are My witnesses, saith the Lord, and the servant whom I have chosen." (Isaiah 43:10). Collective Israel has ever heroically proclaimed God to the world; borne witness to His Sovereignty, and has labored hard to advance the cause of universal righteousness. Collective Israel awaits patiently the day when the knowledge of God shall fill the earth, when the kingdom of God shall at last be established on earth. The Jew is indestructible as long as he maintains faith in God. This explains the mystery of his survival.

"Great in his history
Grim in his tragedy
Through the long years
He has patiently trod.
Hoping and sighing,
Aspiring and dying,
Though bloody the path,
Still he trusted his God."

And still another hope which has sustained the Jew in his wanderings has been that of national redemption. Daily he prayed for the restoration of Zion. Ever enshrined in the heart of Israel is the hope that Zion might be restored, not for his own pride or vainglory, but as a living witness of the truth of God's word which shall lead the nations to the reign of peace. This prayer of the centuries was answered when on [illegible] November 2nd, 1917, Great Britain issued what is now the historic Balfour Declaration, which reads as follows:

"His Majesty's Government view with favour the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people and will use their best endeavours to facilitate the achievements of this object, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine or the rights and political status of Jews enjoyed in any other country."

This charter was then embodied in a mandate of the League of Nations by which Great Britain was given the guardianship of Palestine for the purpose of carrying out the terms of the Mandate. Fifty-two sovereign nations endorsed these terms and they were unanimously approved by the Congress of the United States by resolution in 1922.

Thus, through the Balfour Declaration, Great Britain entered into a holy covenant with Israel. It was natural for the British to have been the first of nations to issue such a declaration in behalf of the Jewish people. For, of all peoples, none is so akin to the Hebraic spirit and the Hebrew scriptures as the British. We feel that Balfour, Smuts, Lloyd George were motivated by a sense of historic justice in issuing this Magna Charta, as a helpful measure toward world pacification. There is no doubt of course that imperial interests played a part and that the declaration was a reward for help rendered the Allied cause by world Jewry.

To this holy covenant, Great Britain contributed two precious gifts, sympathy and co-operation. Thus, after 1917, Jews by the thousands came to Palestine to settle and colonize the land. They actually transformed the desert into a garden. For Palestine, once the land flowing with milk and honey, had been reduced to a desert due to neglect of the soil by aliens who occupied it. Through irrigation and reforesting, the denuded land again took on life, became covered with trees and bedecked with green grass and flowers. Roads were built by the Chalutzim, young Jewish pioneers; the malarial swamps were cleared and sanitation was introduced.

The Jew, who for centuries was divorced from the soil, is again, through the restoration of his homeland, experiencing the joy of the attachment to mother earth. In Palestine the Jew is no longer the middle-man. Applying the latest scientific methods in agriculture, he has returned to his old calling, that of farming. He has also industrialized Palestine. The cities are filled with factories, established by refugees who fled the Hitler terror. The historic Jordan River has been harnessed and now the cities and colonies of Palestine enjoy electricity. Remarkable is the potash industry on the Dead Sea.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancor
That day when it used me to be free,
I might have had an answer."

Up to the last week in March when Nazi troops occupied Hungary, that country was an unpublicized shelter for many Jews, the country's own and tens of thousands of refugees, so that Hungary contains the largest Jewish population in the world outside of Russia and the United States, although a much smaller one than either of these. Before the present war, there were something over 400,000 Jews in Hungary and now the number is being variously estimated at any figure up to 900,000 which is probably fantastic. They are in a bad spot but, with the exception of the refugees, the native Hungarian Jews have enjoyed comparative security, comparative because, while they knew they were threatened, their worse-fated neighboring co-religionists were being put out of the way forever.

Just why the Hungarian Jews have been comparatively lucky is a matter for conjecture and this column's guess is that, for one reason, they were too assimilated to untangle from the others. In 1867 the Jews were declared emancipated and as free in the exercise of civil and political rights as any other Hungarians. A law of 1895 recognized the Jewish faith as equal legally with Christian denominations. Intermarriage has been very common, the Jews have Hungarian names, speak the language as their mother tongue, and are to all appearances like their fellow-citizens. Also the blood of both was mixed on the battlefields of the last war in which more than ten thousand Hungarian Jews were killed.

Hungary was defeated and reduced by three-fourths in size and for revolutions following the war, the Jews got the blame. Jew-baiting and Jew-beating, the demotion of professionals, the limitation by law of the number of university students, and the familiar kind of exclusions preceded Hitler. After the rise of Hitler, the influence of Nazi Germany was strongly felt in Hungary and in 1938 and 1939 anti-Jewish laws were introduced, restricting the Jews in the life of the country, their civil rights, their ratio in the professions, their purchase of land, and debarring them from acquiring citizenship and from retaining naturalization received after July, 1914.

Those restrictions sound worse than they have been because, for the most part, the Hungarians were just not having any. The enactments were rigid but they were of a political nature to show partnership with the Axis. The people in their daily contacts were not Nazified and that is what mattered. It is more than likely that they were annoyed by the brutish violence and noisy savagery of the Germans, found them a nuisance, and were not taken in by the Nazi devices. While the cheap thunderation of the Nazi press drained in their ears complaints against them for enduring the Jews, the Hungarian frontiers [illegible]

Things got brisker with the Nazi military occupation the last week in March. Press and radio propaganda blamed the Jews for the war, and for the Russian advances toward Hungary, which were aided by Jewish "spies." Anti-Jewish decrees excluded, disbarred, demoted, and dismissed and the heavy Nazi hand came down in a summary gesture for removal. Jews were attacked and their shops were looted, Jews committed suicide, Jews of six had to wear the yellow Star of David, Jews were interned and deportation began, Jews were searched and arrested and dragged from trains in a re-enactment of familiar European scenes. There is an irony about the order forbidding Jews to travel by trains, horses, and bicycles, for many of the refugees who got to Hungary had to come on foot over mountains. Besides, it is one way to avoid questioning about documents that don't exist, at least for the stateless and the homeless.

The young native Hungarian Jews are thinking more about dying on their feet as guerilla fighters than about running away. Their people have watched the centuries go by in their homeland, at least since the ninth. Their ancestors survived persecution, yellow badges, segregation, extortion, confiscation, degradation, and what not, in this, their country, and they were built into it, for all that, in many ways, one of which is the presence of Jewish ancestry in something like seven hundred thousand Hungarian Catholics who are in the most literal sense blood brothers. The Jews can now no more be shaken from Hungary than the warp can be shaken from the woof of a fabric and the fabric still remain as a whole. There was a tacit recognition of this in the fact that the Hungarian cabinet split partly over the Nazi demand for the Nuremberg laws in Hungary, precipitating the present Nazi occupation.

Last week, Maurice Hindus, writing from Odessa, told the story of Robert Kantorovitch, the forty-three-year-old Jewish engineer who, with eight others, hid in a cellar from the Nazis for two terrible years, during which gendarmes hunting for them were often stamping over the floor above their heads. Finally, the engineer's sister, Olga, who had been lowering food and water to them when she could, burst in shouting: "Come out. The Red Army is in the city." Perhaps by the time these lines are in print something wonderful will have happened for the Jews in Hungary.

The marching feet they almost hear have a different sound from the footsteps of the jailers. These mean victory and deliverance. They bring tidings of great joy. They are the steps of liberators who will turn the key and open up the prison house. People will sob and falter but it will be from happiness, not from despair. If not now, soon. It won't be long. Shouts will go up: "Come out. The Russians are here. We are free!"

in a position to request other countries to follow suit.

Protests are anticipated from Congress, where immigration restrictionists are expected to contend that the proposal would be an evasion if not a violation of the law.

Mr. Hirschmann, whose account of his experiences in Turkey occupied most of the press conference, said that President Roosevelt is regarded as "a god" in occupied Europe because of his efforts on behalf of oppressed peoples.

"There may be some people in this country who don't like him," said Mr. Hirschmann, "but that is not true in Europe. He is a god there. They can't believe there is any opposition to him. He is in their eyes a saviour."

Mr. Hirschmann said Mr. Roosevelt's declaration of March 24, in which he called on the free peoples of Europe and Asia "temporarily to open their frontiers to all victims of oppression," had had an "electrifying effect" in the Balkans. It was broadcast over and over again, and it gave people hope because it made them feel some one was coming to help them, he said.

Mr. Pehle added that Mr. Roosevelt's declaration had an important effect in overcoming the discouragement of some refugees who had given up trying to get out of the Nazi grip and decided that since their case was hopeless they might just as well die where they were. With the Roosevelt encouragement these people made a new effort, he said, adding that it is essential that they keep trying to help themselves.

Mr. Hirschmann said the War Refugee Board had been instrumental in moving refugees from a camp in Transnistria, the Rumanian borderland now held by the Russians, into the interior of Rumania, whence they may hope to get out through Turkey.

There were 48,000 people, mostly Jewish, crowded into the Transnistria camp, Mr. Hirschmann said, under conditions which were too deplorable and heartrending to describe.

"The whole principle of taking [illegible] history of the people themselves," he said.

Just as arrangements had been completed to move the 48,000 into the interior, the Russians moved into the Transnistria, and transportation lines were choked as a result. The movement of the refugees was "not expedited, to say the least," Mr. Hirschmann said, but it did get under way, with assistance of the Rumanian government.

Mr. Hirschmann said the Russians were also very co-operative, and he paid high praise to Laurence Steinhardt, American Ambassador to Turkey. Mr. Steinhardt "not only backed me up, he plunged into the work," said Mr. Hirschmann. "I think this board and the President and the people [illegible] of this country who are interested in human beings wherever they are should be very grateful for having Mr. Steinhardt in Turkey at this time."

The War Refugee Board has been negotiating with the Turkish government to charter the S. S. Tart to carry 1,500 refugees to Haifa. Everything has been arranged, except a safe conduct from the Germans, and it is hoped that the ship will sail any day, he said. In the last few weeks [illegible] movement of refugees into Palestine with arguments for the establishment of a free port system here, Mr. Pehle pointed out that if the WRB's rescue activities reached such proportions that the Palestine quota was filled, steps would have to be taken either to arrange for the entrance of additional refugees into Palestine on a temporary basis or to provide some other haven for them.

150,000 Jews, mostly skilled craftsmen, live and work at present in Lodz, according to reports received by the Polish Government. The majority of them have been brought from other occupied countries, while Lodz Jews were deported elsewhere.

TO GET PEOPLE OUT OF NAZI-DOMINATED COUNTRIES IS JOB OF RESCUE GROUPS

cording to the New York Herald Tribune.

Appointment of a new field member of the intergovernmental committee and a new special representative of the W.R.B. was announced at the conference. Roswell McClelland, who has served with the American Friends Service Committee in Europe for the last four years, will be stationed in Bern, Switzerland. As the W.R.B. representative, he will be assigned as a special attache on war-refugee matters. Sir Herbert revealed that Sir Clifford Heathcote-Smith, former British Consul General at Alexandria, Egypt, is now working for the committee with the Allied Mission of Control, helping to look after non-Italian refugees.

AUTHOR CALLS COUGHLIN "GRIEF TO CATHOLICISM"

United States, according to the novelist, who said, "I am a Roman Catholic but the activities of that Detroit priest disgust and scandalize me."

Identifying the priest as the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, she said, "He is a scoundrel and a grief to Catholicism."

Emphasizing the necessity for a Jewish national home to save the "remnants of European Jewry," she said: "No consideration should be permitted to stand in the way of this urgent need for ports of refuge for the doomed and of the creation of ways and means to help them escape."
